Meeting

August 18, 2024
2:00 pm

Will Rogers
Garden Center
3400 NW 36th St
Oklahoma City OK

Welcome to the hot, lazy and hazy days of summer. For those of us who do not have air conditioning in their Model A, it is just too hot to ride around in now. We look forward to the Fall for wonderful trips to show off our Model A's. We have a trip planned September 18th to the Infant Jesus Shrine in Prague. Additionally, there are two parades, the Western Days Parade on 7 September in Mustang and the Czech Festival Parade on 5 October in Yukon.

The Fall tour, sponsored by the Tulsa Model A Ford Club, from 17 to 20 October 2024, had to change their destination due to storm damage and major construction in Bentonville, Arkansas. The Fall Tour will be in Van Buren, Arkansas. The dates are still 17 to 20 October and more information on the tour will be made available when finalized. See the Activities Schedule on page two for Hotel information and the deadline for hotel reservations.

I want to thank the nominating committee members of Phil Wolfenbarger, Carla Newton and Jim Yates, for doing the very important and difficult task of finding the willing and dedicated candidates to move this club into 2025. The candidates are as follows:

- President - Phil Wolfenbarger, Vice-President - Vonnie Meritt,
- Secretary - Carla Newton, Treasurer - Chuck Dusenbery,
- Editor - Karen Dusenbery, Webmaster - Jim Yates,
- Director - David Swain, Director - Joe Astafan.

The nominees will be announced at the August meeting and voted on at the September meeting.

Also, I want to thank Joe Astafan for continuing to do the very important job of membership and running the registration and 50/50 pot for each meeting. Thank you, Kaye Sage, for providing our club activities for the Restorer Magazine and keeping up to date on the Sunshine committee with the get well cards and sympathy cards.

We hope to see you soon.

New Ford De Luxe Sedan

The Beauty of Fine Upholstery

THE BEAUTY of fine upholstery gives charm and distinction to the interior of the new Ford De Luxe Sedan.

In this car, as in the Town Sedan and the De Luxe Coupe, you may choose tan Bedford cord, or brown mohair. The Bedford cord has an all-weather face and heavy woolen yarns under each cord. The soft, luxurious mohair will not crush easily and is long-wearing because it is faced with genuine Angora mohair and fine wool wadded. In both types of upholstery, beauty and utility have been combined in unusual degree.

Great care is taken to maintain the quality of the fabric used for the Ford cars. Laboratory tests for weight, the character of the cloth and the grade of the yarns are constantly being made. There are also daily tests of the dyes, the count in the warp and wool, the percentage of wool, the thickness of the mohair pile, and rubbing tests equivalent to years of actual wear.

In every detail of trim and finish, as in mechanical performance, you will note the substantial work that has been built into the Ford car. It has been made to endure.

The Wheels of Love

How a Ford Model A Became the Cornerstone of a Michigan Couple's 53-Year Marriage © Provided by Motorious

Every year, Flint, Michigan, hosts the Back to the Bricks car show, transforming the town into a vibrant tapestry of automotive history. Among the thousands of vehicles, the Ford Model As owned by members of the Michigan Script A Region—a chapter of the Model A Restorers Club—stand out not only for their vintage charm but also for the deep sentimental value they hold for their owners.

Rita and Rusty Gould, a couple from Davison, Michigan, are the epitome of this emotional connection. Over their 53-year marriage, the Ford Model A has become more than just a car—it's a cornerstone of their life together. Remarkably, both Rita, the current president, and Rusty, a past president of the national Model A Restorers Club, have intertwined these vintage cars with their family legacy, becoming local legends in the process.

Their journey with the Model A began in 1973 when Rusty bought a dilapidated 1930 Model A Rumble Seat Coupe for $600. "I was devastated. Back then, $600 was a huge sum," recalls Rita, now 72. "I worried our kids were going to starve." Rusty dedicated five years to restoring the car, eventually earning a perfect score of 500 at a national meet and solidifying its status as the best of its kind in the country.

Today, that car remains a cherished "trailer queen," mostly garaged but symbolizing the couple's enduring love and dedication. Over the years, they've expanded their collection to four Model As, including a 1929 two-door sedan that Rita personalized with "eyelashes" and a diamond ring gas cap. "We just have a lot of fun with it," she says.

WIRING DIAGRAMS

This article about wiring diagrams was found on the MAFCA website in the Technical Q & A section.

The first part of this series, 1928 Wiring Chart, was in the June 2024 Scuttlebutt.

The second part of this series, 1929-1931 Wiring without Cowl Lights, was in the July 2024 Scuttlebutt.

The third part, 1929-1931 Wiring with Cowl Lights, is on the following page.

The entire Wiring Diagrams series, Technical Q & A, is on the MAFCA website at MAFCA Tech Q&A - Electrical. It is the last section, so scroll down to find it.

Question:

Where can I find wiring diagrams for my Model A?

Answer:

There are several books and publications that have wiring diagrams. The Model A Service Bulletins is always a good place to check. In addition, you can find them in many "How to Restore" books.

Back in the early 1990s, MAFCA member Jim Parcelluzzi included wiring diagrams on the MAFCA Clip Art disk. You can find copies of those diagrams here on our website:

Are You a Wood Nymph?

Rayon, the New Fabric of the Model A Era

By Peggy Gill

During the model A years of 1928-1931, rayon was a relatively new fabric that was gaining popularity in the fashion industry primarily due to its look, feel, and versatility in garments. In its infancy, rayon was often referred to as "artificial silk," but it was, in fact, the very first man-made fiber. Unlike modern nylon and polyester which are petroleum based products, rayon is made from natural plant material, primarily wood pulp, so it is considered a semi-synthetic fiber.

In December of 1931, an article found in Popular Mechanics Magazine stated that the question had recently arisen as to "just how much wood a woman carries when fully dressed." This led to calculations by textile experts of the time to show that the average-sized woman requires a log approximately the size of the one shown in the illustration to the right.¹

But what exactly is rayon, and how is it made?

A device for spinning Viscose Rayon dating from 1901

Rayon is a versatile fiber that has the same comfort properties as other natural fibers. It is made from purified cellulose, which is the primary component of the cell walls in green plants. In the case of rayon, wood is usually the main ingredient. The cellulose is chemically converted into a soluble compound and then this solution is dissolved and forced through a "spinneret to produce filaments which are chemically solidified, resulting in synthetic fibers of nearly pure cellulose."² The fibers themselves are soft, smooth, and highly absorbent which allows them to easily absorb colors when dyed, and also makes them particularly useful for hot and humid climates. Their texture, when woven into a fabric, imitate the feel and texture of silk, wool, cotton, and linen and today are used in garments that range from delicate lingerie to heavy winter coats.ⁱⁱⁱ

The history of rayon dates back to 1855 when Georges Audemars, a Swiss chemist, dipped a needle into liquid mulberry bark pulp and gummy rubber to make threads that could be then woven into cloth. This method, however, was too slow and time consuming to be practical.

Thirty years later, French chemist, Hilaire de Charbonnet, patented an artificial silk that was a cellulose-based fabric. Fortunately, this fabric was removed from the market due to its high flammability properties. Nevertheless, Charbonnet is credited with being the father of the rayon industry.

Shortly after Charbonnet's development, in 1894, three British inventors, Charles Cross, Edward Bevan, and Clayton Beadle developed and patented a safe and practical method of producing this artificial silk cloth that came to be known as viscose rayon.^{iv} Their system did not require purified wood pulp cellulose, which made it cheaper and easier to produce. Their process, which takes multiple steps, allows for modifications to be made to the fiber as it is being produced and the finished textile can be soft and silky or sturdy and strong. It can have a dull or bright finish, and can be silken, linen-like or even wool-like. Specific types of rayon available today include viscose, modal and lyocell; the difference between them is in the manufacturing process and the properties of the finished product. Nevertheless, even to this day, the viscose method has been the principal method used to make rayon.

Rayon continues to be a popular fiber in the clothing and textile industry today. So the next time you are out enjoying the shaded coolness beneath the trees, take a moment to imagine just how much wood you may be wearing.

On a side note...

For the Seamstress: Using Rayon Fabric in Reproduction Garments

For those of you interested in era fashions, be sure to take into account your pattern when choosing to work with rayon fabric. In researching the attributes of this fabric, many experts stated that in addition to the soft, smooth, and absorbent properties that make this fabric so desirable for garment construction, it also has a wonderful draping quality. This is a plus for those styles that flow and fall from the shoulders and hips. However, rayon does not hold pleats well, something I read about in my research about two weeks too late.

I discovered this firsthand as I was making a 1929 style dress from a beautiful orchid colored rayon crepe using an original pattern. The front of the dress has a chevron shaped $\frac{1}{2}$ " pleated inset in the skirt front. This was difficult to initially block the pleats, and I had to hand baste each pleat the entire length of the inset. I must have spent a good three hours pleating, basting, and ironing in the pleats. Completing the dress, I wore it to an event, and had multiple compliments on catching the look and style of the model A era. However, it was hot that day, so after the event, I washed the dress in cold, on gentle cycle. To my dismay, the pleating washed completely out!

So what I thought would be an easy care, wash and wear dress for era image, instead has turned into an ironing challenge each and every time I wear it.
